On June 25, Joe Biden signed a bipartisan gun control bill, that expanded background checks on gun buyers under the age of 21 and provided incentives for states to create laws to allow confiscation of firearms from people ruled too dangerous by justice. The bill didn't prohibit the purchase of semiautomatic rifles, causing controversy on the fact they are the guns used in most mass killings.

The house committee investigated throughout the summer the Capitol protests on January 6, 2021. The testimony of Cassidy Hutchinson, a former White House aide, brought heavy accusations on Trump and his allies, by revealing more proof that Donald Trump incited the protests.

Boris Johnson stepped down as Prime Minister of England on July 7, following many scandals on his behavior during the COVID-19 lockdown.
